Anti-Slavery Day - Sunday 18th October

First marked back in 2010 by a Private Members Bill, the Anti-Slavery Day Act. It provides a much-needed opportunity to remind everyone, government, communities, and individuals of the 40 million people currently in slavery world-wide.

Lockdown restrictions may have made spotting and reporting the signs of trafficking and modern slavery more challenging but all of us must remain vigilant.

To report a suspicion or seek advice you can contact the Modern Slavery Helpline confidentially on 08000 121 700.
